

Abstract

In the case of a sanitary fitting, an operating grip is pushed on the operating shaft of a mixer cartridge. To fix the operating grip a locking device is proposed, which engages on the locking element located on the operating grip by means of a locking element on the fitting. There is as such no direct security lock between the grip and operating shaft, but between operating grip and valve body.

-----